Norwegian Smart The Norwegian Smart (Danish: Norsk Smart) is a family of electric multiple unit trains manufactured by the Norwegian National Railways. The name comes from the principal operator of the type, the Norwegian State Railways. History First deliveries of the type took place in the 1970s and they are still in use by the Norwegian State Railways today. In the early 2010s, the Norwegian State Railways was considering to reduce the size of their fleet of trains, and the railway authorities prioritized electrification of a key corridor between Oslo and Trondheim, which the Smart trains could fill, along with the currently operating LKA through trains and, to a lesser extent, the Gjøvikbanen commuter train. As a result, the Norwegian Public Railways designated the project "Train 2011–2020". The large fleet of original trains from the late 1980s was kept in the Oslo depot in Ringerike, around south of Oslo, under the ownership of Norwegian State Railways. In the late 2010s, the Norwegian State Railways announced that the oldest train (unit 671, VGN Sjøfølge 31) would be retired in November 2019, and that two of the other three oldest trains (units 719, VGN Sjøfølge 26, and 725, VGN Sjøfølge 17) would be retired in 2020. The Norwegian Public Railways ordered from the Bombardier Transportation company three new cars, numbered 713, 714, and 715, in early 2011. After two years of preparation, they were delivered to the Oslo depot. Bombardier also delivered a fourth unit, number 716, in June 2013. The first unit was delivered in the early summer of 2012, and the other two in the second half of 2012. During the Oslo–Trondheim–Oslo rail strike in 3da54e8ca3
